Part Affected: Adjustable Stainless Steel Lid Brackets - Part #A1932

New Features: The Stainless Steel Lid Brackets have had modifications made to both the lid support arm and wall mount base to increase the rigidity of the bracket. We have added holes to both the arm and base that will allow them to be screwed together. This same hole can also be used to attach a bonding lug to the lid bracket. (Bonding lugs not included with this part) The lid support arms now include 4 slots that will be used with the lid extension kits.

Please be aware that due to shipping dates, lag time in moving product from our Utah facility to the Indy facility, and any stock you may have of this part, you may still see some of the brackets that were made before these changes were made.
